Sons of John A. Sleicher Say Cost of Labor and Paper Caused Big Losses Mengelberg Leads

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday against the Leslie-Judge Company, 225 Fifth Avenue, and, on the petition of William Green, chief stockholder, Judge Martin Manton appointed Thomas B. Felder, of 14 Wall Street, to act as receiver under a bond of $25,000.

It is related in the complaint that the Leslie-Judge Company owes more of a receiver it is stated that the company publishes Leslie's Weekly, Judge and Film Fun. John A. Sleicher, formerly with the Albany Argus, has been conducting the business since its reorganization in 1909. He has been ill, it is said, and will not be able to take up the affairs of the company again.

Sleicher and George Sleicher have been acting as president and secretary of the corporation.

Mr. Green, according to the petition, is the main creditor. He is said to hold a note for $100,000 on which payment has not been made. He also is said to possess $512,720.50 par value of first mortgage 4 per cent registered bends of the company, as well as $130,000 par value of the same bonds given as collateral security for the payment of the note for $100,000. In all, he holds $642,720.50 worth of bonds, and 431 shares out of a total of 490 shares of the capital stock.

Mr. McDonnell is said to hold a note for $15,000, and Mr. Cooke is a creditor to the extent of upward of $500.

Other creditors mentioned are: Doubleday, Page & Co, $130,000; the Charles Schweinler Press, $130,000; Powers Photo Engraving Company, $4,000; the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, $400,000, and $870,000 to book subscribers.

The company's assets are said to be $60,000 cash on hand, material worth.

The company's assets are said to be $60,000 cash on hand, material worth $500,000 and furniture and fixtures worth $60,000.

The reason for the alleged insolvency is reported to have been the illness of John Sleicher, poor business management and the high cost of paper and labor.

Recent Losses Heavy

In 1919, it was announced, the company lost $150,000: in 1920, $200,000, and in January, 1921, $16,000.

Reuben Sleicher said that the petition came as a surprise to him. He said that due to the abnormal cost of material and labor for two years and the falling off in advertising in the last six or eight months, the company had accumulated a deficit, but all current accounts were being met, when due, with one exception, where an extension of credit had been arranged for, and plans were well advanced to obtain such further credits as might be necessary to put the business on a profit-making basis.

"The bankruptcy proceedings were initiated by holders of obligations of long standing," he said, "which I had hoped would not be presented for payment until a more opportune time."

He has the assurance of the receiver that all three publications will be continued, with the present staff and employees continuing in their places, and is confident that the company's affairs soon will be adjusted to the satisfaction of all creditors.

Russian Violinist Shows Ability, but Isn't a Sensation
At his second recital, given last night in Carnegie Hall, the Russian violinist, Mitnitzky, demonstrated again that he is a capable player, schooled in the essential things requisite for public appearance. He did little, however, to enhance the impression made at his first appearance, a few weeks ago, or to entitle him to distinction as one of the season's outstanding figures. His tone is fairly large, but has little plasticity, and there are but infrequent flashes of musical color in his interpretations.

The most pretentious numbers of-fered were the Handel Sonata in E and Paganini Concerto in D, which were given in straightforward fashion, but with unmistakable slips in intona-tion and rough edges in the Paganini number. Eschaikowsky's "Serenade Melancolique," excerpts from the Tartini "Va-riations," a Mitnitzky arrangement of the Chopin E minor Nocturne and two numbers of his own composition were among the smaller pieces offered. Francis Moore furnished excellent ac-

The priest asked no questions. He knows boys as well as men. He went into the butcher shop and unfastened the ice box door. The unfortunate butcher, speechless from cold and anxiety, fell into his arms. An hour later he had thawed out enough to identify Israel Mendelson, of 405 East Eighth Street, whom Detective Grossman had arrested, as one of his captors. In the Sheriff Street police station israel admitted that the identification was right, but steadfastly refused to tell who his companion was. An hour and a half of questioning brought only the replies: "I don't know; think I'm going to squeal on me pal?"

His pal, he said, the "jack," Israel was sent to the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.
